What happens to PFAS products when they are incinerated?

-  Aaron Goode42:02

Yale has a Center for Green Chemistry - I'm not sure if they working on remediation and safe disposal of PFAS but they should be. <https://greenchemistry.yale.edu/>

-  Iris Herz Kaminski42:52

1. Do we know if any of the other phafs are safer? 2. Is there any legislation to protect the consumers from new chemicals being produced?

-  Aaron Goode58:44

Also- FYI - Saint Gobain had a facility in New Haven along Grand Avenue where they handled PFAS coated plastics. Facility is right next to the Mill River and now undergoing cleanup (but, like English Station, cleanup is just of the site not the river)

Thank you Anne

-  Kathy Czepiel01:06:24

Yes, thank you. Very informative.

-  Jim Stacey01:06:31

Thank you, Anne. Wonderful presentation although not very hopeful about the 'solutions'. I have to leave the meeting for another meeting. Will listen to the recording.

-  Steven Winter01:06:46

Thanks Anne!

-  Kathy Fay, NHS of NH, she/her01:08:26

Such a clear and important presentation, THANK YOU, Anne.

-  Anstress Farwell01:08:48

Is there a list of famine products w/out these chemicals? Could a list of these be sent to health Departments?

-  Jacob Robison - City Plan01:09:14

thanks Anne!
