CK do you have the numbers on how many heating + cooking units could be installed with the $1 million grant?

Christopher Cane 58:52

CC I know I'm not officially an EAC member yet, but I did also read over the letters. They look good. Only comment at the moment is wondering whether we want to include anything about rodenticides to the Neonics and pesticides documents. I know this is a concern for many environmentalists, rehabbers, and exterminators.

Anstress Farwell 01:00:09

AF Maybe it needs to be clear that there would be no salt service to people who do not pre-register.

Anstress Farwell 01:02:51

AF I agree with Laura about having Sate-wide salt distribution centers set-up.

Iris Herz Kaminski 01:03:55

IH I think finding ways for enforcement around car idling and or trash dumping is important. What do other cities do?

Laura Cahn 01:05:25

LC Photos I took of nips

NHS New Haven 01:07:26

NN The styrofoam outreach and enforcement you've been doing is a big win! We had that ordinance in place for decades but it was unenforced

Iris Herz Kaminski 01:08:50

IH Wonderful work! Thank you Steve!

Anstress Farwell 01:10:00

AF Pharmacy cold-pack deliveries usually have large styrofoam boxes. So outreach to pharmacies and hospitals would also be important to do at some point.

Christopher Cane 01:10:03

CC Have a student working on an oyster/shellfish "recycling" project. They're out in Redding. Is it Collective Oyster Recycling & Restoration?

Anstress Farwell 01:11:46

AF You need a koala bear on an e-scooter

Christopher Cane 01:16:00

CC I like the idea of getting out the word about different city environmental initiatives through various relevant environmental educator channels...

AM Wow, my camera is really not working

Laura Cahn 01:31:32

LC I thought you did that on purpose
